

HOUSTON —June, 2015 — Core24, a single source business resource platform for midmarket companies searching for exceptional business service providers, announces the selection of artVIA as the organization's Interior Design expert. Core24 provides instant access to vetted, trustworthy business resources that entrepreneurs and executives can rely on for help in areas typically outsourced by a company.

After an extensive vetting process, artVIA was invited to be the exclusive Interior Design member of Core24 Houston, an elite group of business services providers. Core24 chose to endorse our interior design services based on our upstanding reputation in the local business community and our ability to deliver results, among several other criteria. As a member of this organization, we have forged strong relationships within our network of experts, and have come to consider them as an extension of our team. Leveraging the power of relationships, we often refer clients to our Core24 partners. Core24 is well respected in the Dallas community and has recently begun expanding into Austin, and Denver.

"Finding the very best and most qualified experts to address the unique of a business is critical but, can be an enormous drain on an executive or entrepreneur's time and resources, especially when you consider the intense local competition -- over 500,000 professional service providers in the Houston area alone. Core24 is in the process of identifying best in class business resources in Houston as we've done in Dallas over the past five years, representing both mission critical and ancillary services that a company is likely to need as it continues to evolve and grow," said Sunny Nunan, founder of Core24.

About Core24:

Headquartered in Dallas, Core24 is a business resources company that helps executives and entrepreneurs fast track to exceptional local business resources in areas typically outsourced by a company in Dallas, Houston and Austin.